(b. Jan. 4, 1679, Windsor, Conn. [U.S.]--d. May 17, 1767, East Windsor, Conn.), British American colonial justice, military officer, and governor of Connecticut.

After service as a clothier's apprentice, Wolcott became a successful tradesman. In 1707 he became a selectman for the town of Windsor. He was admitted to the bar in 1709 and was that year elected to the lower house of Connecticut's legislature. Wolcott became a justice of the peace (1710), a judge of Hartford's county court (1721), a judge of the Hartford superior court (1732), and chief justice of that court in 1741. He also served as clerk of the legislative assembly (1710-11), was elected to the Upper House of Assistants in 1714, and became deputy governor in 1741.

Wolcott was elected governor of Connecticut in 1750 and served for four years until his defeat by Thomas Fitch. He was an important member of colony committees concerned with boundary disputes, Indian affairs, paper-currency issues, and law code revisions.

His military service started with his appointment as captain in 1722, and by 1739 he had risen to the rank of colonel, commanding Connecticut's First Regiment. He was commissioned a major general in 1745 and was second in command of the successful Anglo-American expedition that captured the French fortress of Louisbourg.

Wolcott was also a prosperous farmer and a poet. His Poetical Meditations, Being the Improvement of Some Vacant Hours, printed in 1725, was the first book of verse published in Connecticut.

city, coextensive with the town (township) of Norwich, New London county, southeastern Connecticut, U.S. It lies at the confluence of the Yantic and Shetucket rivers, which there form the Thames.

The settlement, which was begun in 1659 by a company from Saybrook led by Captain John Mason and the Reverend James Fitch, became a legal township in 1662. Shipbuilding and shipping and the production of cotton, paper, and nails were important to its economy in the 18th century, and from the U.S. War of Independence to the American Civil War firearms were made there. Textiles then dominated the economy until after 1912, when there was a trend toward diversification. Norwich is the birthplace of the Revolutionary War traitor Benedict Arnold. It is also the site of Leffingwell Inn, scene of Revolutionary War councils and the Native American Burial Grounds for members of the Mohegan Indian tribe. The homes of the Huntington family, many members of which were leaders in early American civil and military affairs, are also preserved there. Norwich is the seat of Three Rivers Community-Technical College (1963). The city was incorporated in 1784 and consolidated with the town in 1952. Pop. (1992 est.) city, 37,321; New London-Norwich MSA, 306,916.

Relates to Thos. Fitch of Wethersfield. Not our line but the line of Samuel, brother to Thos. & Rev. James

THOMAS FITCH AND SARAH BOARDMAN

According to Robert Wallace genealogy:

Thomas Fitch III , born 1665 Norwalk, CT., died Oct. 17, 1704 Norwalk
Sarah Boardman born March 4, 1654/55 at Wethersfield, CT died Norwalk/Fairfield, CT.
married Sept. 15, 1680 at Norwalk, CT.

Thomas and Sarah being the parents of Samuel, Gov. Thomas, James and Elizabeth.

According to R.C. Fitch :

Under Samuel Fitch I, teacher at Hartford, CT, and the brother of Rev. James, Thomas, and Joseph all first-settlers.
Samuel I married Susannah Whiting (widow) had 2 sons, Samuel & Thomas
Thomas, born about 1652 married Abigail Goodrich in 1680 and she died in 1684.
Thomas married 2nd Sarah Boardman, dau. of Samuel and Mary Boardman
Thomas died Oct. 17, 1704 in Wethersfield.
Thomas left no will, but had a recorded inventory
1679 Thomas was a constable in Wethersfield
1694 Thomas drew a land allotment
1665 Thomas was a rate-maker ??
1699 Thomas was town schoolmaster
1702 Thomas was a leather-sealer
Residence at Broad Street, between Church and Fletcher's Lane, Wthsf.
Inventory taken Nov. 13, 1704 by John Goodrich and Daniel Boardman
Children: Listed in inventory
Samuel Fitch
Abigail, wife of Abraham Kimberley
Sybil, wife of Joseph Hurlbut
Martha
April 26, 1705 lists John Curtis, Sr., and John Goodrich, and Daniel Boardman as administrators to Sarah Fitch, widow, relict of Thomas Fitch deceased.

Born to Thomas and Abigail:
Thomas II, born 1681, died young
Sybil, born Nov. 2, 1684

Born to Thomas and Sarah Boardman:
Abigail Fitch, married Feb. 11, 1696
Sybil Fitch, married April 27, 1704,
Martha Fitch, died unmarried, Feb. 2, 1713 Had will, adm. mother
Samuel Fitch, born before 1697. Being a minor in 1713 he chose William Whiting to be his guardian.

According to the reviewer of R.C. Fitch's books and recorded on FTM CD 179, he makes the following corrections in this work above: Page 1875

"Turning to the family of Samuel Fitch (pages 204-206), it is correctly stated that he left two sons, Samuel and Thomas. But the 2nd Samuel is given 2 wives, Sarah Bryan and Mary Griswold. Only the first of these belong to him, and he died in 1690 leaving an only daughter; his wife, Sarah, survived him and died in 1698. The Samuel who married Mary Griswold was actually the third Samuel, nephew of the second Samuel, and son of his brother Thomas of Wethersfield.

Incidentally, another blunder is made in this branch, due to following Stiles "History of Wethersfield" in its statement that Abigail Fitch, who married Abraham Kimberly in 1696 was daughter of Thomas Fitch of Wethersfield by his second wife, Sarah Boardman. Since Abigail Goodrich the first wife of Thomas Fitch, died in 1684, only some 12 years before the daughter married, it is obvious that the daughter Abigail could not have been by the second wife unless she married at the age of 11 or younger. As a matter of fact, this Abigail Fitch was called granddaughter in the will of her maternal grandmother, the mother of Abigail (Goodrich) Fitch."

My notes to the above: If indeed Abigail is listed in Thomas's inventory as the wife of Abraham Kimberly, then she must be Thomas's daughter, but would have to have been born by the first wife. if indeed she was married in 1696.

All of the above relates to Thomas of Wethersfield. It shows that he spent his life in Wethersfield. There is (according to R.C. Fitch) glimpses of his life from 1665 or possibly 1679 on to his death in the Wethersfield area, in 1704. Wethersfield is a part of Harford at the present time.

According to Hall in his Records of Norwalk book:

Page 207 says "Thomas Fitch, Sen. died May 10, 1731
It is indicated by the dates that this was Thomas Fitch III
Thomas Fitch I died 1704 in Norwalk
Thomas Fitch II died 1684 in Norwalk
Gov. Thomas Fitch IV was still alive as he died in 1774
So by process of elimination Thomas Sen. would be Thomas Fitch III

Thomas Fitch III, son of Thomas Fitch and Ruth Clark was born in Norwalk 1665
Thomas Fitch III, died in Norwalk, May 10, 1731 "Hall"
Thomas Fitch III had 3 wives, Sarah, Rhoda, and Rachel (no maiden names)
Thomas Fitch III had 4 children:

Hon. Samuel, born 1698, lived his life in Norwalk
Gov. Thomas, born 1700, lived his life in Norwalk
James Fitch I, born in 1702 lived his life in Norwalk
Elizabeth, born in 1704, married Joshua Raymond and had several children born in Norwalk.

Note that the children of Thomas Fitch III are not anywhere close to the names of the children of Thomas of Wethersfield, whose inventory was made out by Daniel Boardman and John Goodrich. The Norwalk Thomas Fitch family's children were being born about the same time the Wethersfield children were being married.

Thomas Fitch III of Norwalk was born in 1665, died in 1731
Thomas Fitch of Wethersfield was born in 1652, died in 1704

If by some chance Sarah Boardman married Thomas III of Norwalk she would be about 11 years older than he is and did not have their children until in her late 40s as Gov. Thomas Fitch was born in 1700, Samuel in 1698, James in 1702, and Elizabeth in 1704. Not impossible, but not probable. The marriage date of 1680 on the Robert Wallace Genealogy is wrong according to R.C. Fitch who says that Thomas Fitch of Wethersfield married Abigail Goodrich in 1680 and Abigail died in 1684 so the marriage date of Sarah and Thomas would have to be after that date.

What did the Boardman Genealogy say??
Were the marriages in Wethersfield consulted??

ABRAHAM KIMBERLY,. according to Jacobus, page 361 "The Old Families of Fairfield"

Abraham Kimberly, son of Abraham

Born in Albermarle County, "Carolina", 4 Mar. 1674/5
Died at Newtown, in 1727

Thomas Fitch was the son of Samuel (brother of Thomas of Norwalk and Rev. James of Norwich) by wife Susanna, widow of William Whiting of Hartford.

In 1701 he bought the interest of his sisters in his mother's homestead and in 1706 bought right in Stratford land from Eleazer Kimberly of Glastonbury (his uncle); and in 1706 sold the property bought from Eleazer, as well as land laid out to Thomas Kimberly, In 1724, being of Newtown, he sold. Old Norwalk East Cemetery

[redacted]

THE Cemetery from which this copy was taken is situated at East Norwalk in the old village where the first settlement was made, Home lots laid out, and a few rods South-east of the site of the first Church, which was on the North corner of East Avenue and Fort Point Road. The Cemetery is triangular in shape, bounded on all sides by highways and enclosed by a picket fence. There are many graves seen which are unmarked by Headstones, and very many more of the early ancestors remains were deposited in this burial place, of which no mark or tradition is left. Here rests one of our Colonial Governors, (Gov. Thomas Fitch) No. 230. Probably the first minister Rev. Thomas Hanford is buried here, (tradition says near the headstone of his son Thomas,) where is seen a "flat Brown stone" the inscription is wholly obliterated. The 2d minister Rev. Stephen Buckingham, (No. 209) and 3d minister Rev. Moses Dickenson (No. 234) a tutor of Yale college. Buckingham St. John (No. 20), a son of the 1st Pastor, Rev. Jedeiah Buckingham. Two deacons; one of 1st church.

1997215

Five militia Capt, one militia Col., a Rev. Soldier, a Col., two Capt., and seven soldiers in late war who have inscribed stones, a Master of Arts, M. D, an eminent Dentist, and many whose title has never been chiseled on the stone marking their grave.

The yard contains but one vault; (The Raymond.) In summer the flowers placed in this cemetery by descendents of deceased friends show that the memory of the dead here are not forgotton. It is well cared for. May this interest continue, and the forefathers be allowed to rest and remain where they are. The object of the undertaking is to preserve definite memory of these early ancestors of Norwalk.

"He is a public benefactor who gathers together from the crumbling monuments and preserves in printed form the memorials erected by their cotemporaries over the early fathers of the country.".

[N. L. Collamer, Wash. D. C.]

The reader may say where are our Earliest Ancestors? To this the answer must be within the above enclosure. It is true over fifty years had passed after the settlement of the town before the first inscribed headstone appears, yet we have no record yet found, no tradition still kept or known of, or evidence of the existance of any other. This was for the first church in the heart of the ancient settlement. Imported stones were costly, and in a few Graveyards, stones from the field were selected, with the initials and year of death roughly chiseled upon them. A number appear in Stratfield Cemetery (now Bridgeport, Conn.,) before 1700, the earliest 1688 and one in Fairfield 1687. No well inscribed stone appear in either of these before 1700. From the above facts we are led to believe this is the first cemetery in Norwalk.

Each Stone is given a number commencing on the South side, and is copied in six sections between parallel lines from East to West so the small numbers are stones on the south part of the yard and so northward.

Here Lyes Buried ye Body of

21—Mr. Mathias Saint John,

Aged 37 years. Dec'd 1732.

[Captain Joseph St. John, s. of Joseph and Sarah (Betts) St. John and "probably" grandson of Mark Sention was born Nov. 5th, 1705, married Susannah —— who was born 1709, d. Dec. 4, 1749, aged 40 yrs, 2 mo., and buried near Joseph's Tomb Table. Her inscription reads "ye wife of Capt. Joseph St. John." He died Sep. (probably) 1756 or 1760, aged 53 or 57 yrs. His residence was where now lives Wm. H. Earle, East av. nearly opposite the Governor Fitch place. He was a rich man and large land holder, and after his death there was erected to his memory a brownstone Tomb Table similar to the Governor Fitch. Beyond the memory of those living the entire inscribed slate which was placed in the top of this table, was missing, and various traditions and rumors have been handed down of the cause of its removal, whereabouts and disappearance. The author has thoroughly traced these to establish for whose memory this table was erected. At last he has in his hands a part of the original slate which was found while excavating a blind drain on the Wm. H. Earle's place, 1893. The St. John coat of arms is a shield, and the upper third has two stars and the motto is "Data Fata Secutus." The coat of arms engraved on the broken slate (which exactly fits in the socket for it in the tomb table) bears a part of this motto. ("Data Fata ——") the "Secutas" being broken off. A large portion of the shield is seen. What remains to be seen of the inscription is as follows:]

Long Ridge Cemetery

The Long Ridge Cemetery is located on Long Ridge Road in the far southern part of Danbury. It is between a house lot and a wooded lot, and is easily missed when driving by. The overall condition is fairly good, considering that there is no evidence of routine upkeep. This cemetery was most likely affiliated with the Long Ridge Methodist Church, which still exists about 1/4 mile south of the cemetery.

There are 20 gravesites that have been identified. In this transcription, the following codes have been used in the last column:

- I = The stone inscription is not legible to the naked eye. Inscriptions were verified using one of several enhancing techniques.
- M = The stone existed in 1934, at the time of the Hale Collection readings, but cannot be located at this time.
- B = The stone is broken into two or more fragments. All fragments may not be present in the cemetery.
- T = The stone has toppled over and is lying on the ground. It may or may not be in multiple fragments.

Lower Starr's Plain Cemetery

One of two cemeteries in the Starr's Plain section of Danbury, located just off of Route 7, about 1.5 miles south of I-84, on Starr's Plain Road. The cemetery near the south end of Starr's Plain Road, and is partially hidden from view by overgrown brush. The general condition is abysmal, with dozens of toppled, broken and buried stones. A heavy overgrowth of brush makes walking through the cemetery difficult. There is no evidence of any type of upkeep for many years. Sadly, this cemetery, one of Danbury's oldest, is the resting place of several defenders of Danbury during the 1777 British raid on the town. Also, as with any cemetery that reaches back to the Revolutionary War era, there are quite a few fieldstones present.

FAIRFIELD COUNTY CEMETERIES

St. John's & St.Andrew's Cemeteries, Stamford, CT

These records have been contributed by Fairfield County CT researchers Barbara Kaye and Mary Aillery. The data has been collected from several sources, including the Hale Cemetery Collection (see history, below) and through the volunteer efforts of generous transcribers.

A heartfelt "thank you" to Mary Aillery for volunteering to coordinate this project, the Stamford Historical Society for offering their copies of data and to CTFAIRFI Stamford Town Coordinator Barbara Kaye for getting the records to Mary and her team!

We need you! If you live near a cemetery in Fairfield County, CT and wish to contribute data or add additional information to an existing cemetery collection, please contact Barbara Kaye (gen1775@aol.com). She will see to it that your information is added. If you are interested in volunteering to transcribe cemetery records, we'll help get you started!

The Charles R. Hale Collection of Headstone Inscriptions resides at the Connecticut State Library. Charles Hale was a member of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War. In 1916, he became involved in locating and decorating the graves of Revolutionary and Civil War veterans in his home town of Rocky Hill. In order to make it easier to find these graves, he decided to record each veteran's name, date of death and military service. He was persuaded by State Librarian George S. Godard to search also for veterans of other wars.

In 1919, the General Assembly made an appropriation to carry on this work throughout the State. In 1933 and 1934, with grants from the F.E.R.A. and the W.P.A., Mr. Hale began copying and indexing the essential information from every headstone in the State. Two copies of these listings were deposited in the State Library. Records for individual towns were made available to libraries and historical societies throughout Connecticut.

Note: These records may contain errors in dates or names. Some errors were made either at the time of the survey of the cemeteries or during the transcription in 1935. One common error in reading old headstones is mistaking a four for a one. We have tried very hard to avoid creating new errors during the retyping of this data for the internet. In addition, we have attempted to correct some of the original errors, either by revisiting these cemeteries or by recalculating dates or ages based on known dates of birth for some of these people. However, some of the stones that were legible in 1934 are either missing or no longer legible.

I have also attempted to identify these people. Anything added within brackets like these [ ] indicates a suggestion as to the identity of the person. If a wife's name does not include a separate surname, it is not known. Many couples in early Stamford were second or third cousins with the same surname. There are many surnames that have several alternate spellings. See spellings for a list of common Stamford surnames and their alternate spellings. Some people appear in more than one listing because some graves were moved to newer cemeteries, new stones were carved, and the old stones were left behind. Although much of the data on the various families in early Stamford is accurate, there will always be errors, many of which are found in published genealogies. It is recommended that you write to the Town Clerk's office for death or birth certificates for your ancestors. If you have documentation that supplies any missing information or corrects an error, please email Barbara Kaye at gen1775@aol.com.

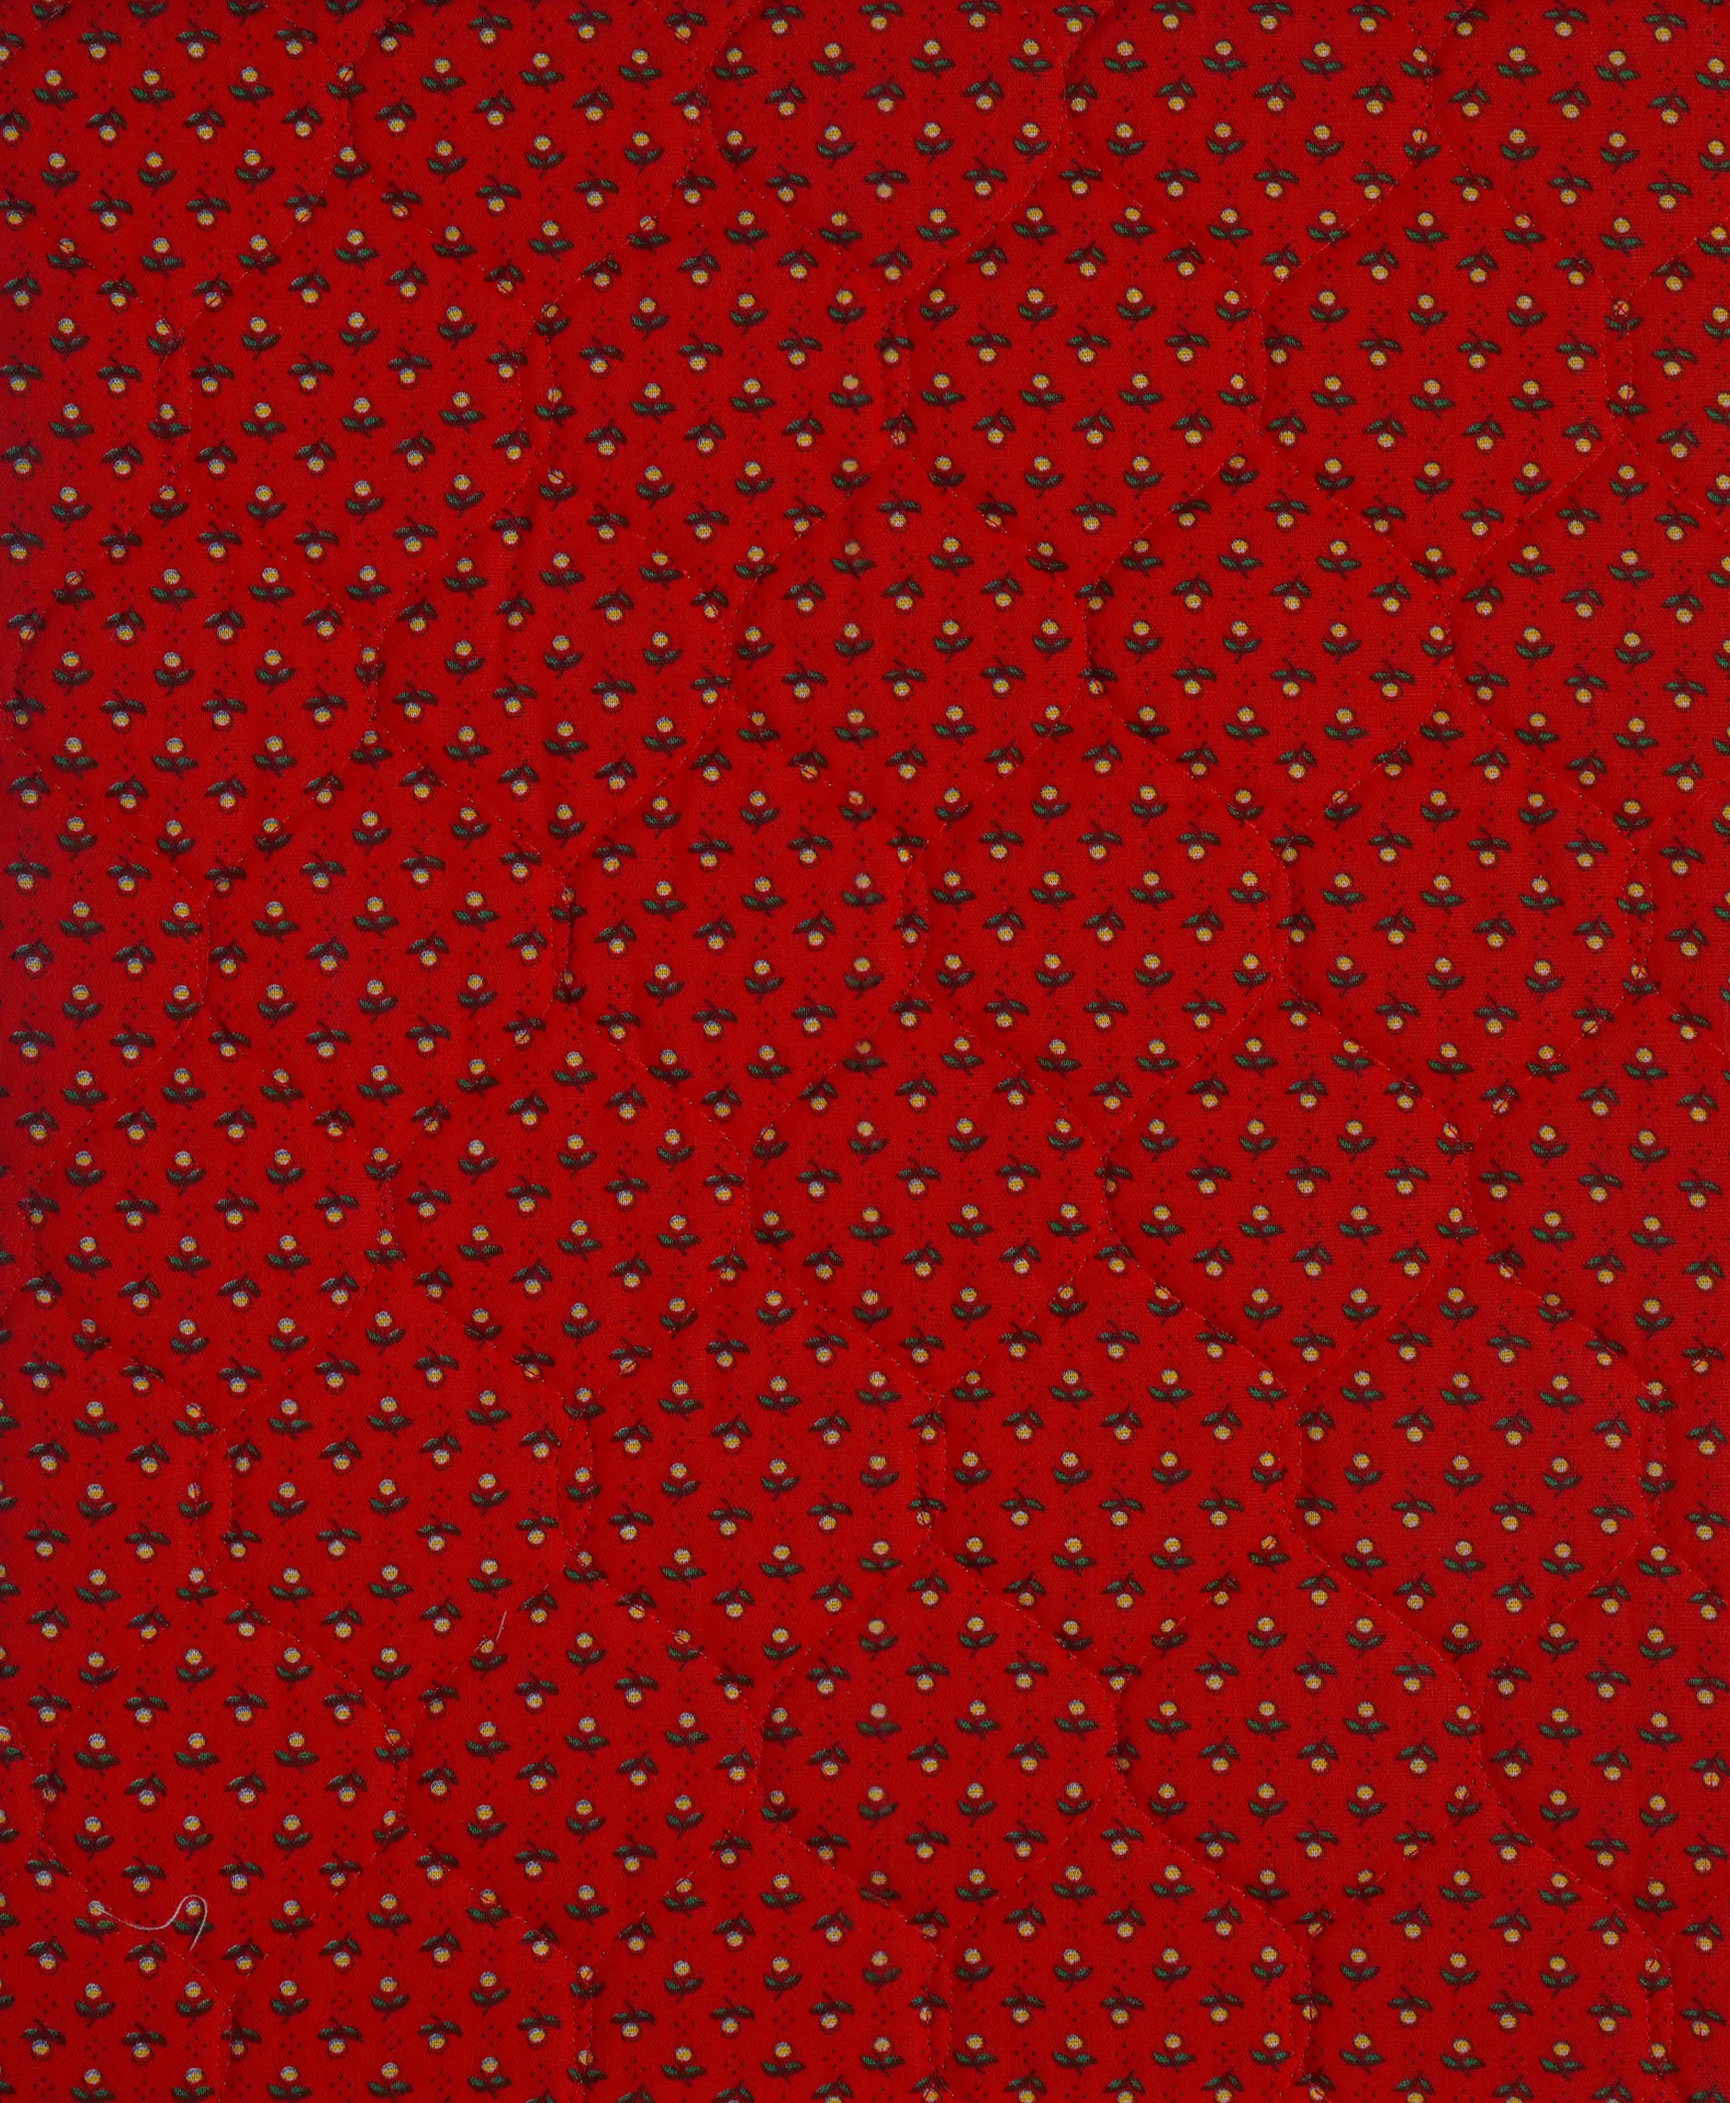
Adelphi - City Of Albany

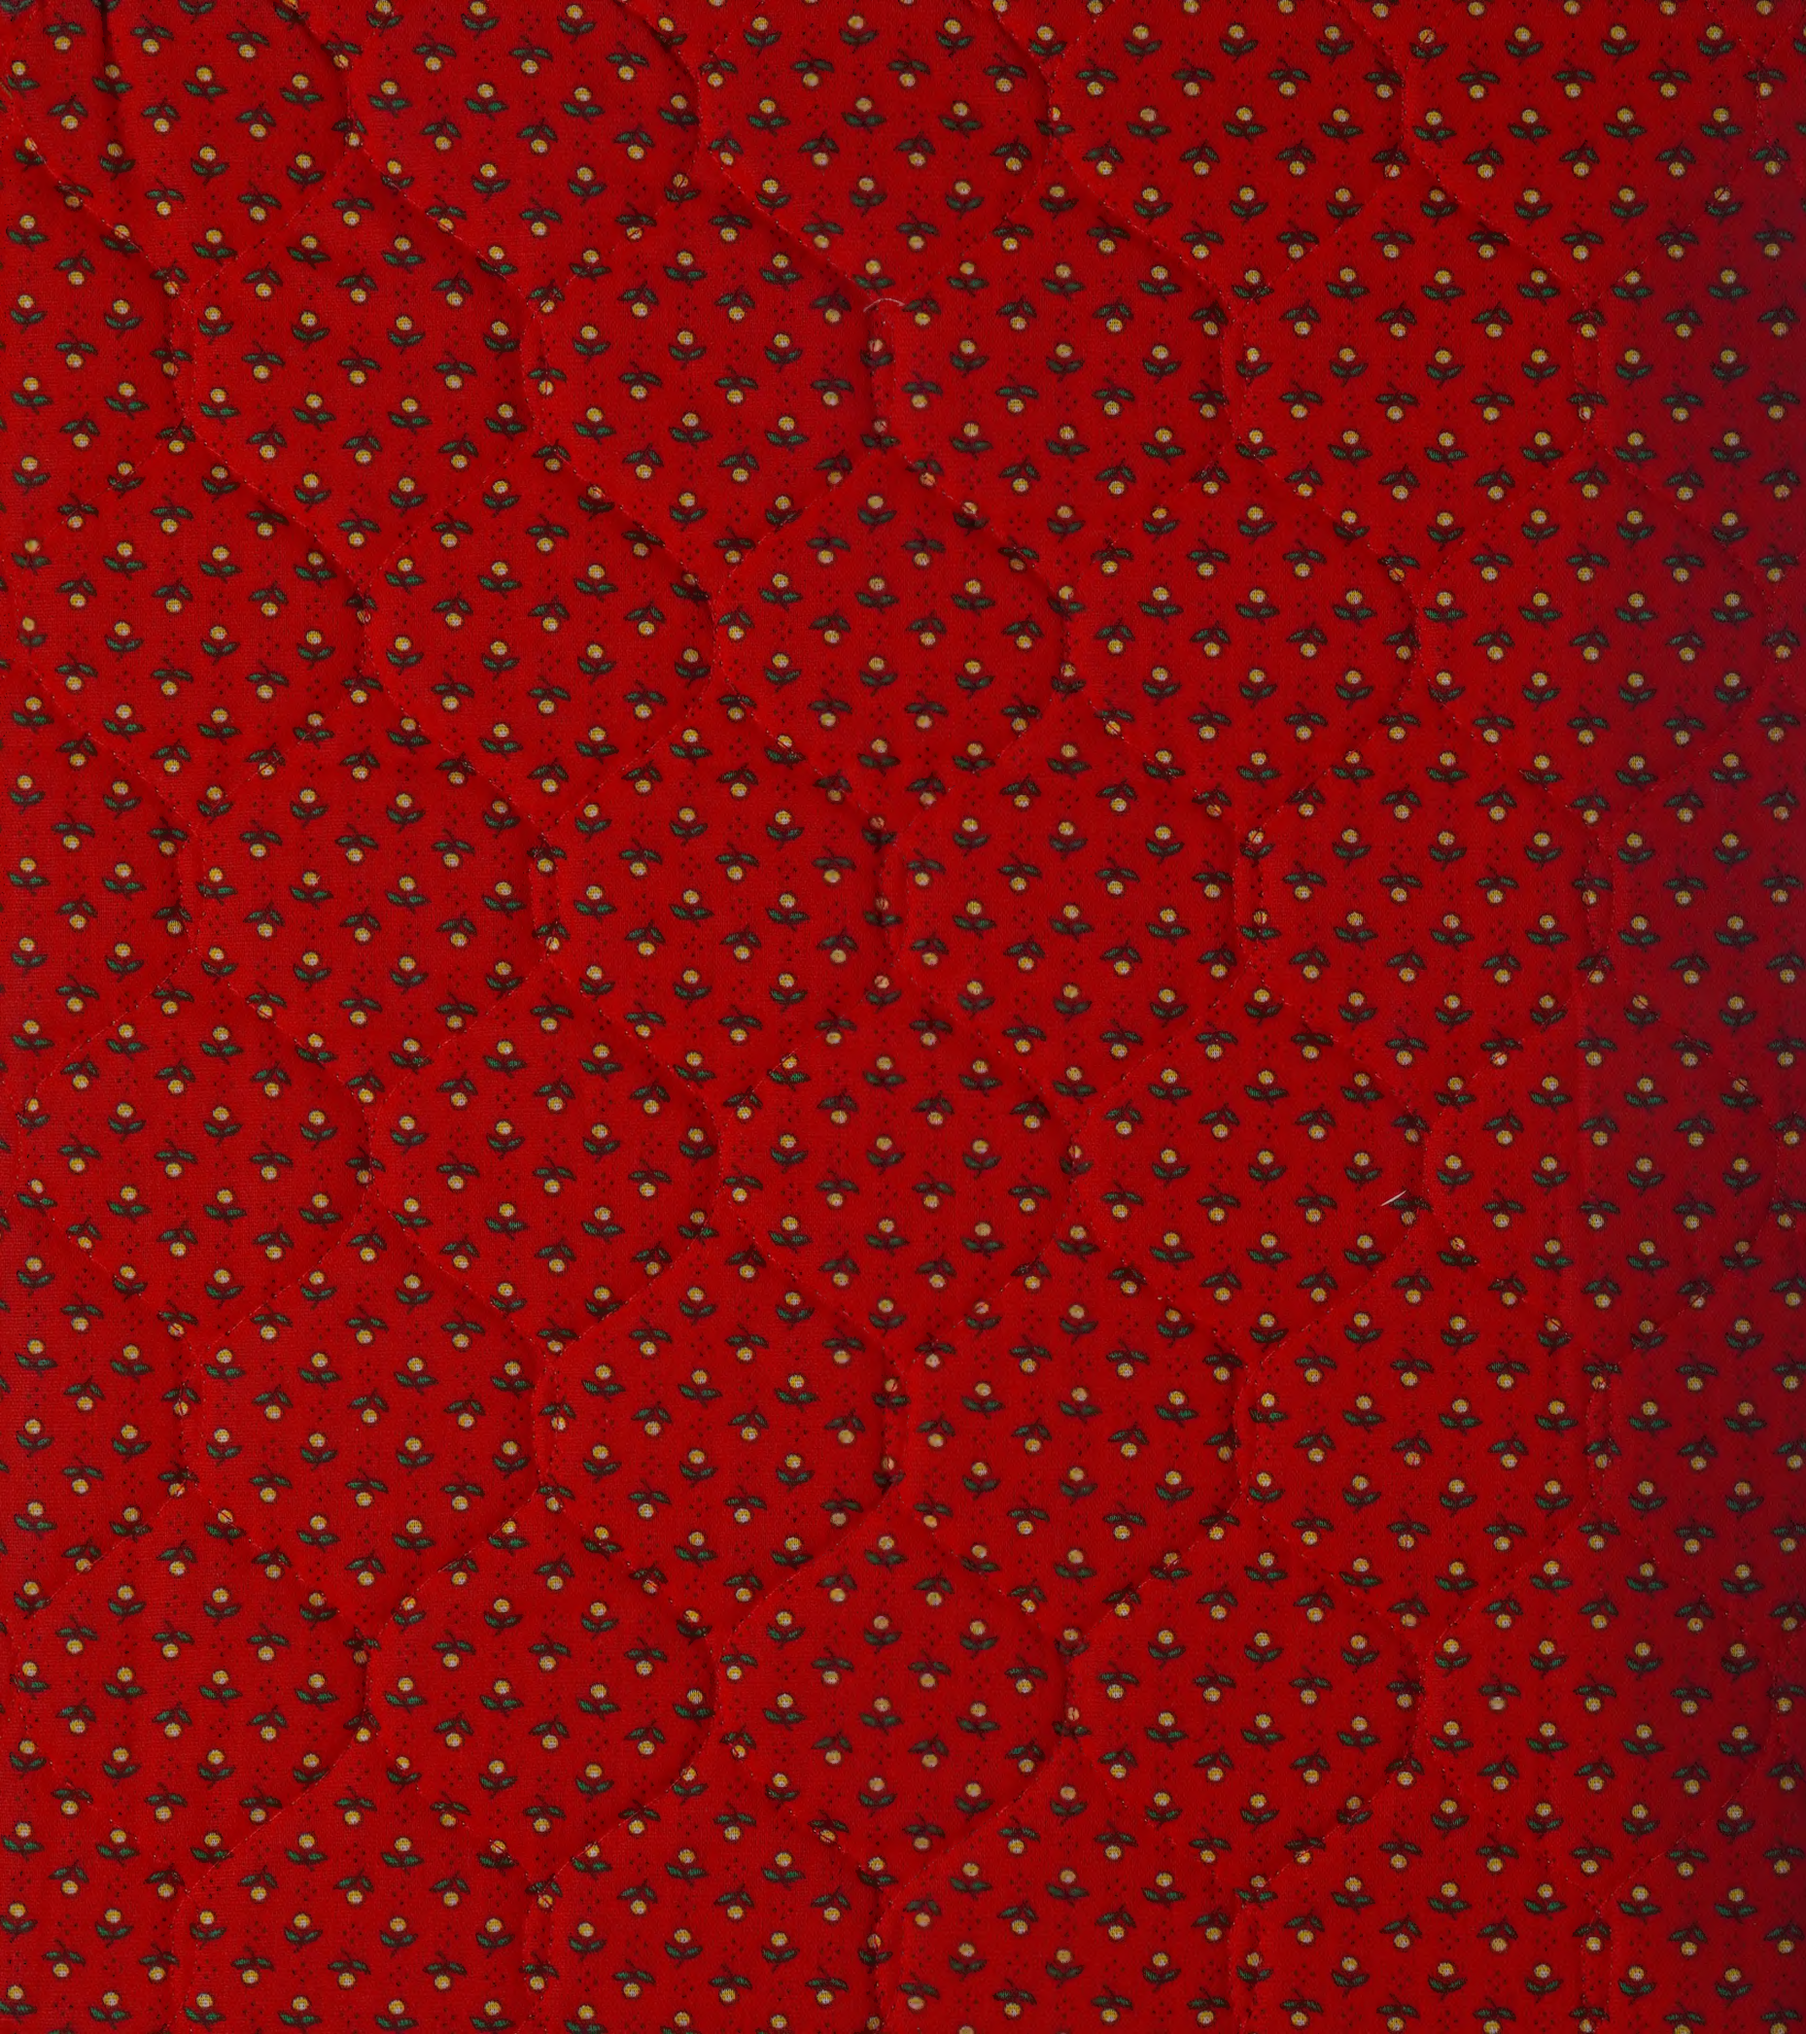
The "John Marshall", an eighty foot steamboat, began the first regular run between Norwalk and New York in 1824. The capacity was thirty-five passengers and the fare one dollar. The fare was considerably reduced three years later when Cornelius Vanderbilt established an opposition line with the ship "Nimrod".

The "John Marshall" was eventually replaced by the "Fairfield" and the "Fairfield" in turn superceded by the "Adelphi". On September 28, 1878, in Norwalk Harbor, a boiler explosion on the "Adelphi" resulted in thirty fatalities and some injuries. The ship was later rebuilt, renamed "The City of Albany" and put back into service.

Disastrous Flood Of 1955 Caused Wide Property Damage And Some Loss Of Life.

Early view of the Norwalk River bed looking south underneath the Wall Street Bridge showing the building on the bridge which was washed out in 1955.

Wall Street view shows gap at right where the building stood on the bridge before the flood.




Same site of preceding picture shows extensive damage after the flood.
